

GOING FURTHER - Resources

Recommended Books:

(*Available for check out in the Faith@Home Center)

*I Gave Dating a Chance (by Jeramy Clark) Offers a balanced approach to the extreme perspectives of dating. Learn how to confidently pursue healthy relationships that are characterized by holiness and integrity.

*Praying for Your Future Husband: Preparing Your Heart for His (by Gunn & Goyer) Prayer is the key to unlocking the love story God has prepared for you... with your future husband, and with Him, the lover of your soul.

*The Meaning of Marriage, Facing the Complexities of Commitment with the Wisdom of God (by Timothy and Kathy Keller) An extraordinarily insightful look at the keys to happiness in marriage that will inspire Christians, skeptics, singles, long-time married couples, and those about to be engaged. It is essential reading for anyone who wants to know God and love more deeply in this life.

Recommended Websites

Boundless.org is a community for Christian young adults who want to grow up, own their faith, date with purpose, and prepare for marriage and family.

Relevantmagazine.com Taking on a variety of issues, Relevant is dedicated to "God in our Generation". For young adults, the magazine focused on faith, culture and intentional living. A print version can be found in our Faith@Home center.

Lamentations 3:25-29 (MSG) "God proves to be good to the man who passionately waits, to the woman who diligently seeks. It's a good thing to quietly hope, quietly hope for help from God. It's a good thing when you're young to stick it out through the hard times. When life is heavy and hard to take, go off by yourself. Enter the silence. Bow in prayer. Don't ask questions: Wait for hope to appear."

Single

Should You Pursue Marriage?

HomePointe
Pointers

Single - Should You Pursue Marriage?

*From Staff at Mattis Avenue Free Methodist Church
With Kurt Bruner, The Center for Strong Families*

As an unmarried person, you have distinct opportunities to grow in your faith and to make a substantial contribution to the kingdom. In fact, the season you're in has the potential to be the most formative period of your life. How can you best honor God in this time?

Many Christians wonder if they should move toward marriage or embrace the kind of single life the apostle Paul talks about in 1 Corinthians 7. As Timothy Keller notes, "single people cannot live their lives well as singles without a balanced, informed view of marriage. If they do not have that, they will either over-desire or under-desire marriage, and either of those ways of thinking will distort their lives." In order to evaluate your situation, ask yourself two questions.

QUESTION ONE: Have I been stalled?

Popular American culture tends to discourage marriage; implying people can live a more exciting, fulfilling life by remaining unmarried. Even Christians with the best intentions often drift into a single lifestyle marked by recreational relationships, hyper individualism, consumption and leisure. Following this cultural path, it's no surprise some Christian singles find their lives stalling out to loneliness, a series of broken relationships and a general lack of purpose. Those who find themselves in this cycle need to pause and reflect on how to become intentional rather than passive with regard to the single life.

QUESTION TWO: To what am I called?

In the scriptures God calls adults to follow one of two callings—either a path to Biblical marriage or a life of celibate service (Genesis 2, 1 Corinthians 7). The best way to honor God in your singleness is to be intentionally set apart for His purposes, recognizing that His call to both marriage and singleness is much different from the popular single culture because it includes a commitment to absolute purity, active engagement in Christian community, and faithful stewardship of your talents and resources.

Singles who cultivate such qualities find it easier to discern if God is calling them to biblical marriage or celibate service.

Marriage and Family - Singles who don't feel called to celibacy should pursue a Biblical marriage (Ephesians 5:22-33) with hopeful preparation. While one may not know how and when they will marry, they can become intentional about eliminating roadblocks. They can remain faithful in purity, stewardship and community. They can also take initiative and pray purposefully for a good marriage despite living in a culture that dishonors marriage. For men it means moving beyond passivity and taking the initiative to "leave and cleave" (Genesis 2:24) and to "find" a wife (Proverbs 18:22). For women, it means preparing for marriage in prudence (Proverbs 19:14), in purity (Ephesians 5:1-5), in community (Titus 2:3-5 and Ephesians 4:11-16), and in prayerfulness (Matthew 7:7-9 and Matthew 21:21-22).

Celibate Service - Dr. Al Mohler of Southern Seminary explains that celibacy means sacrificing the companionship of marriage, the pleasures of sex and the blessing of children without being bitter about it. In that context, serving God in celibacy makes full engagement in the body of Christ—giving and receiving fellowship – vitally important. It is not a "consolation prize" for those who haven't yet found a spouse – but a purposeful life devoted to serving others as worship and "being Jesus" to others. Celibate service may be a grace given for a period of time, or for a lifetime.

Keep in mind "we should be neither overly elated to be getting married, not overly disappointed by not being so—because Christ is the only spouse that can truly fulfill us and God's family is the only family that will truly embrace and satisfy us." (Keller) Whatever the circumstances of your life, you can find purpose and fulfillment as you break away from a stalled culture and honor God in hopeful pursuit of either celibate service or a God-honoring marriage